And Suffered Annually With a Red Scald-Like Humor on Her Head— Troubles Cured by Cuticura.

"When my little Vivian was about six months old her head broke out in boils. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her entirely. Sometime later a humor broke out behind her ears and spread up on to her head until it was near-ly half covered. The humor looked like a ly half covered. The humor looked like a scald, very red with a sticky, clear fluid coming from it. This occurred every spring. I always used Cuticura Soap and Ointment which never failed to heal it up. The last time it broke out it became so bad that I was discouraged. But I continued the use of Cuticura Soap. ## Modern Farm Methods As Applied in the South.

Notes of Interest to Planter, Fruit Grower and Stockman

Corners and is Simple.

Dragging "Dutch fashion" is nothing new. I learned it more than twenty years ago. Still, it may be new to some and prove of value. Its advantages are that it drags neither lengthwise nor square across the furrows and makes easier corners than the ordinary diagonal dragging. Plain Dutch fashion is shown in diagram above. Commence by "striking out" from A to B. Turn to the right and go back on the left side of first track till you reach edge of field near A. Drive across the first track and back on the opposite side to the other end. Cross over and back on opposite side again.

Continue crossing over at each end inside your last track and outside the last track along the sides. When half done the piece will look like first diagram, and the next trip would be from C to D, to E, to F, to C. When done the last trip would be from G to H, and the piece will have been dragged twice diagonally in opposite directions. This works well on pieces that are nearly square or not more than twice as long as wide. Of late we have found that it is economy in plowing, cultivating, etc., to make our lands as long as possible. On these Dutch dragging did not work as well, as it was too near lengthwise the furrows, so we hit upon what we call "crazy Dutch," shown in second diagram. We "strike out" zig-zag across the piece two or three or more times, according to its length compared to width. The picture shows three times-viz.: From A to B, to

C, to D. Turn to the right and go back on left to first track to C and drive across it. Go on right side to B, then up left side to A. Cross over and back on left side of P. Drive straight across the first two right side to C, where you will cross the two tracks again, and go on left before you make a turn.

to N, O, P. ever, the truer you get it struck out the better it words out in finishing, concludes "Uncle Reuben" in writing the foregoing to the Rural New

Nitrogen as Fertilizer.

Getting gas and power from peat is a great deal better than using it as a source of nitrogen in fertilizers, as many fertilizer men are doing. The fertilizer may analyze all right, but the peat nitrogen will be a long time showing its effects, if ever. And yet I hear of prominent men using it. Dried peat may make a better filler in a low grade fertilizer than sand, but the time is coming, and in some sections of this State now is, when farmers in the best wheat growing section of Maryland have not bought any nitrogen in a fertilizer for twenty years, and yet have seen their wheat crops trebled and quadrupled, while using nothing but acid phosphate and potash. In fact, one of the English bulletins has shown recently that where phosphatic fertilizers only were used for eleven years the soil nitrogen increased 851 pounds an acre over the soil receiving no fertilizer, and the plats receiving sulphate of ammonia and nitrate of soda in addition to the phosphatic fertilizers contained less nitrogen than those receiving phos-

An old friend and correspondent in on a breed, don't change.

Dutch Dragging Makes Convenient | this State who died at the age of eighty-five a few years ago, wrote me some time before his death: "On this farm, where we under the old system of farming made twelve to fifteen bushels of wheat an acre, I have for the last twenty years averaged forty bushels an acre, and during that time have bought no fertilizer except plain acid phosphate." And yet all over the cotton country of the South farmers by the thousand write to me continually to give them a formula to make a fertilizer for this, that or the other crop, seeming to think that for every cree planted they must have a special f ilizer, and millions of dolnt needlessly in the South for fert! ers that they would not need if they farmed this land instead of gambling on the chances with fertilizers on dead soil, the life of which has gone with the wasted humus, and will never return till the humus is restored .- Professor W. F. Massey, Sal.

Some Other Insects to Combat.

Another very prevalent scale and one that does a great deal of damage is the oyster-shell bark louse, so named from its general appearance and easily recognized by its name. This may also be controlled by spraying with the lime-sulphur wash or by the use of a solution made by dissolving one pound of caustic potash in five gallons of water. This latter is best used from the middle of May to the first of June just as the young insects are beginning to crawl. Professor Waugh says that spraying the trees in winter with pure lime whitewash will also get rid of the oyster

The codling moth is another enemy of apple growers which can be controlled by spraying just after the blossoms have fallen and about one week later with Paris green or arsenate of lead.

This poison is usually combined with the Bordeaux mixture so that two purposes may be served by the same spraying; and the same thing is true of the poisons used to kill the destructive potato beetle.

In conclusion it may be said that spraying is one of the persistently was an object of much interest to all neglected pieces of work that should be done on the farm. There is certainly no economy in allowing from ten to twenty per cent, of our crops to be destroyed by insects and plant diseases. Spraying cannot prevent all the loss from these sources; but mary egg weighs about one ounce. It it will prevent much of it and pay a measured around the largest part handsome profit on the money and time invested, when properly done.

We must see that the fowls have a fair allowance of grain-corn, wheat, etc.—and a liberal quantity of animal feed, and it will probably be best not to depend on them getting all of this themselves, no matter how large the run. Green feed should also be supplied in abundance and since winter eggs are proliable, why not grow some crop to supply green feed the year through? It can be done and will pay. The poultry must also have grit and unless there is plenty of sharp, hard gravel on the runs, it should be supplied. Lime is also a necessity and charcoal desirable. If wet feeds are used they should not be too wet, should always be sweet and never given in large quantities.

ON FOOD

The Right Foundation of Health.

Proper food is the foundation of health. People can eat improper food for a time until there is a sudden collapse of the digestive organs, then all kinds of trouble follow.

The proper way out of the difficulty is to shift to the pure, scientific food, Grape-Nuts, for it rebuilds from the foundation up. A New Hampshire woman says:

"Last summer I was suddenly taken with indigestion and severe stomach trouble and could not eat food without great pain, my stomach was so sore I could hardly move about This kept up until I was so miserable life was not worth living.

"Then a friend finally, after much argument, induced me to quit my former diet and try Grape-Nuts.

"Although I had but little faith I commenced to use it, and great was my surprise to find that I could eat it without the usual pain and distress in my stomach.

"So I kept on using Grape-Nuts and soon a marked improvement was 'shown, for my stomach was performing its regular work in a normal way without pain or distress.

"Very soon the yellow coating disappeared from my tongue, the dull heavy feeling in my head disappeared and my mind felt light and clear; the languid, tired feeling left, and altogether I felt as if I had been rebuilt. Strength and weight came back rapidly, and I went back to my work
